The drawing shows the elevation of the church facade, which is a long, low structure with a series of windows and a central entrance. The facade is divided into three main sections: a central section with a large window, a left section with a series of windows, and a right section with a series of windows. The drawing includes a section view on the right, showing the internal structure of the church, including the roof and the floor. The section view is labeled with 'A' and 'B' at the ends. The drawing is titled 'PROSPETTO NORD LATO STRADA TRATTO "A"' and 'Scala 1:100'. The drawing is oriented horizontally, with the facade on the left and the section view on the right.
